"My Dear Sir: I have received certain resolution adopted at the session of the Philadelphia annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, held March 20th, of which the following is a symopsis:

"My Dear Sir: I have received certain resolutions passed by the annual conference held at Philadelphia. The action taken by this assemblage of Christian men has greatly surprised me. They declare that this conference earnestly protests against the recent action of the Government in excluding the use of native languages in the education of Indians, and the compel them to receive all religious institute of the conference carried protests against the recent action of the Correlation of the C

The President quotes the rules of the Indian Bureau upon the subject, and continues:

"The Government seeks in the management of Indians to civilize and prepare them for that contact with the world which necessarily accompanies civilization. Nothing is more important to the Indian from this point of view than a knowledge of the English language; nothing can be more consistent than the teaching of English in our Indian schools. It will not do to permit these wards of the Nation to become their own masters, to indulge in their barbarous language, because it is easier or because it pleases them. Secular teaching is the object of the ordinary government schools, but surely there can be no objection to reading a chapter in the Bible in English, or in Dakota, if the English could not be understood, at the daily opening of the schools. The use of the vernacular should not be encouraged or continued beyond the limit of such necessity; and text-books and oral instruction in general sense and the curriculum certainly should be in English. The rules of the Indian Bureau have been modified and changed in their phraseology to meet the views of good men who seek to aid the Government in its benevolent intention until it was supposed that their meaning was quite plain and their purpose satisfactory. These rules will be adhered to and the Government will continue to invoke the assistance of all Christian people and organizations in this very important and interesting part of the labor entrusted to it."

NATIONAL NOTES.

The Bond Bill Proving a Hard Nut

WASHINGTON, April 3.—|By the Associated Press.] The meeting of the Senate Committee on Finance today gradually changed itself into a conference of the caucus committees of the two parties. A proposition was made to strip the Bond Bill of all amendments and pass it as it came from all amendments and pass it as it came from the Finance Committee. At 2:30 no result had been reached. It is understood that Senator Stewart asserts on condition that the Finance Committee agree to report the bill providing that for every dollar of circu-lation retired under the operation of the bill a silver dollar shall be coined.

the Land Office upon the condition and future of the public timber lands was laid before the House today. It embodies a scheme of legislation for the protection of forests by the creation of a forestry bureau in the Land Department.

The House Commerce Committee has ordered a favorable report on the resolution to provide for congressional inquiry into the engineers' strike in the West.

FIFTIETH CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—[By the Associated Press.] Senate.—Mr. Mitchell from the Committee on Railroads reported a bill to appropriate $500,000 for a boat railwayaround the obstructions to navigation in the Columbia River at the Dailes and Celilo Falls. The bill was placed on the calendar. Mr. Stewart withdrew his motion hereto fore made to reconsider the vote passing the bill for the relief of purchase other grantees of swamps and overflowed lands, and to reimburse and indemnify certain States. The bill goes to the House.

The resolution heretofore offered by Mr.
Riddleberger, to suspend so much of the The resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Riddleberger, to suspend so much of the rules as provide for an executive session during the consideration of the fisheries treaty, was taken up on the notice given yesterday that he would call up the resolution in order that these who were opposed to it might absent themselves and draw upon the courage which they lacked to vote for it. His proposition, he said, had been beaten for five years by just the same kind of parliamentary practice that had been tried today, interposing other morning business. He called for the yeas and nays on agreeing to the resolution.

Mr. Edmunds said that he desired to submit some observations to the Senate which he did not care to submit to the Majesty's Ministers just at present. He therefore moved that the galleries be cleared and the doors closed.

The motion was agreed to, and the order was executed.

The Senate, after two hours spent in secret session, opened its doors. During the secret session, opened its doors. During the secret session was the only subject of debate.

Senators Edmunds and Hoar made a strong fight against the resolution.

Upon motion of Senator Butler, the resolution of the Bond Bill.

A vote was taken on Mr. Palmer's motion to recommit the Bond Purchase Bill, and the motion was rejected—yeas, 20; nays, 31.

was offered by Mr. Spooner and agreed to. Mr. Spooner's substitute was agreed to

The House then went into Committee of the Whole for the consideration of the special order.

E. B. Teller of Ohio said that while the bill was important on account of the money involved in it, the facts of the case were so simple that he did not think that any extended discussion was necessary. The bill proposed to relinquish the amount of the direct tax uncollected and to provide for the repayment to States and undividuals whe had paid any of the money.

Mr. Oates of Alabama, in opposing the bill, argued that under the Constitution Congress had a perfect right and power to levy a direct tax, but he denied the constitutional right of Congress to refund a tax which had been legally levied and applied. If the House was determined to pass this bill, it should include within its provisions one for revising the common tax which had been unconstitutionally levied.

After further debate the committee rose, and the House took a recess until 8 p.m.

At the evening session the House proceeded to the consideration of measures reported by the Committee on Military Affairs. The following bills were passed:

House bill (introduced by Mr. Morrow of California) appropriating $10,000 for the construction and repair of roads from the entrance of the reservation of the Preside, at San Francisco, to the National Cemeters.

W. S. Leonard, the Justice of the Peace who held an inquest on the remains of Dr. Harlan at Compton the day after the fire, was the first witness called by the prosecution, but before being sworn C. C. Stephens, Esq., of defending counsel, asked that the prosecution be compelled by the Court to comply with the section of the Penal Code which requires that statement of the crime and what the prosecution expect to prove, be made to the jury before any testimony is offered. To this the District Attorney made no objection, and he thereupon proceeded to briefly review the facts. Not entering into detail or stopping to give minute particulars, he gave the broad facts concerning the death of Dr. Harlan, and Hattle Woolsteen's connection with the matter, that are known to the world at large, Hayling concluded his review, speaking, was sworn and testified: I reside at Compton, in this county, and I am a farmer on a small scale. I am a Justice of the Peace, and live about one-half mile east of the postoffice and railroad. About the side of October last I held an inquest, in the absence of the Coroner, at the premises of Mrs. Barbey, on Lemon street, about one and one-half miles from town. The house sets back about 500 feet from the road, and the barn was some 50 feet behind the house.

It in the corner of the barn that had been med and was lying among the asbes. The uest was held about 3 o'clock p. m., the erhoon of the 7th of October. The body a lying face downward with the left a extended and the right arm bent unneath the body. The skull before the dy was disturbed was almost entire with exception of a small portion. The left of the posts were stronged to the control of the posts were stronged to the post was almost entire with exception of a small portion. The left of the posts were stronged to the post was almost entire with exception of a small portion. The left of the post was almost entire with exception of a small portion. The left of the post were tracks around the left of the post was almost entire with the properties of the post were stronged to the pos having been burnt off. I discovered over the left ear a hole penetrating the skull which I should say was made by a medium-sized pistol bail. The hair on the head had disappeared but a portion of the mustache remained, and the teeth were in good preservation. That was the state of the body before it was disturbed. The body was in the northeast corner of the barn and the nearest corner of the edifice to Lemon atreet. The jury when examining the body turned it over when the brain at once fell to pieces. Underneath the body, which was protected underneath by a portion of clothing, was found a letter in the vest pocket. The jury had charge of the remains, and I don't know that I can positively state that I saw the things found. A portion of the letter was handed to me, also the pieces of clothing, which I delivered to Chief Darcy, and saw them again at the preliminary examination. At the time of the inquest that was all that was handed to me. I was within a few feet of the body when the articles were handed to me. I was within a few feet of the body when the articles were handed to me. The articles of clothing were then given to witness to identify, and he proceeded with great deliberation to hold up the various articles of clothing and examine them minutely.

Mr. Stephens, of defending counsel: Are you examining those articles, or exhibiting them to the jury?

"Well, I have the right to examine them at my leisure," answered the witness, indignantly.

The Court: If counsel have any objec-

The Court: If counsel have any objection to make, it must be made to the Court, and not to the witness.

"If Your Honor please," answered counsel, "I asked the question for information before I made my objection, and I don't think that the answer to my question was respectful or in order."

The witness, resuming, stated: There was afterwards a post-mortem examination on the remains, which were in my chairse, at Compton. To my knowledge there was no bullet found in the head of the corpse. I was present while the post-mortem was beting made. I believe I can identify the ar-

were sworn in. The first thing done was to take testimony, and among other witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Coitrin, Mr. Twist and Mr. Jenkins. The jury saw the remains the same as myself, and the lettes I have identified, and the moustache I have mentioned were then both quoted in evidence. Mr. Malcoim was selected as foreman, and I think he turned over the body. In addition to the bullet-hole, a portion of the skull on the other side was missing, having the appearance of having fallen in. The bullet-hole might have been caused by a rifle ball, but I only give an approximation when I say it was about the size of up ittle finger. Witness drew on paper a description of the hole to which he testified, which was entered as Defendant's Exhibit No. 1.]

Continuing: I am not an "expert on caliber," and therefore cannot say as to the exact size of the hole. It was located above, two inches from the ear, or rather where the ear had been. When the body was turned over a considerable portion of the face remained. The upper Jaw remained, and also the lower, and the upper teeth, I think, were sound. The left portion, however, was charred, if not altogether burnt away. About half of the upper lip remained, covered with the moustache, which was singed. After the verdict was rendered on the premises the inquest ended, and I removed the remains in box to Compton. I had left the remains in box to Compton. I had left the remains in box to Compton. I had left the remains in the charge of Tom Kee until I went to Compton and got the box I have mentioned, and returned to the barn. The box containing the remains, I then removed in a spring wagon to Compton. At the post-mortem examination in the remains were taken from the box, and Dr. Whalen and Dr. Downs made an examination. On the conclusion of the examination, I myself took the remains should be exhumed for the purpose of identification. I helped to dig up the remains to the graveyard and had them buried. I received notice from Officer Brady and the two dentists that the remains should

C. W. COLTRIN, on taking the stand, corroborated many of the facts testified to by the previous witness. His testimony was practically as follows: I am a resident of Compton, and live about one mile from the postofice. The Barbey ranch is 10 acres in extent, the same as my own, which adjoins. In October last the Barbey place was vacant, Mrs. Barbey having died previously. I have been living down there about 16 or 17 years, and Mrs. Barbey had her place for about six years. There are two points of entrance to the Barbey ranch, and the barn was situated behind the house, and was some 24 feet square. I prepared a plan of the barn at your request, and identify this as being the one. [Plan filed in evidence as People's Exhibit No. 3.] In the building there was a portion used as a stable, another room where the hiredfman slept, and a storeroom. Mrs. Barbey's barn was burnt on the morning of Friday, the 7th of October of last year. I went over about 10 clock in the morning, and then the barn had fallen. In. I was there again about 7 or 8 o'clock. Others were present at the time, and the body was found in the northeast corner of the barn. The feet were very close to the sill of the door, and I noticed when the body was moved that a portion of the clothing was unburned. The left arm and both legs were burnt off, and over the left ear there was a hole about the size of an ordinary builet. It might have been caused by something else, but it was about that size. I didn't see anything picked up about the body. I saw Miss Hattie Woolsteen at the Barbey pace during Mrs. Barbey's lifetime, and on the Wednesday before the fire. She visited Mrs. Barbey for about two weeks. and I saw Miss Hattie almost every day. I cannot speak positively, but I believe I saw two ladies drive into the Barbey piace in a buggy. I saw them unhitch the horse, but I didn't see them enter the house. I didn't take particular notice, but I thought one of the ladies was Miss Hattie almost every day. I ca C. W. COLTRIN, thay before the nre, I believe, I saw Miss Hattle again, accompanied by a gentleman in a two-horse buggy, as they drove past my place. The gentleman wore a light, broad-brimmed hat. CONFIDENCE FAKIRS.

STAGE ROBBERS COMPARED AND COME OUT AHEAD.

low They Work and the Kind o People Taken in by Them-A '49'er Has His Say About the

"I see your paper is after confidence men ers have already secured the right of way through private property and the consent of adjacent property-owners. It is proposed to charge and collect fares and carry freight for fifty years. The hearing of the petition was set for April 6th.

The matter of appointing a deputy for the Superintendent of Schools from the present time to August 1st, at a salary of $100 per month, was discussed. The motion of Supervisor Martin to this effect was lost on a tevotte, Chairman Rowan and Supervisor Venable voting against the $100 salary. Supervisor Venable moved to make the salary $75 per month, which was lost by a tie vote.

Supervisor Martin moved to make it with a sharp stick," said the typical first settler to a Times reporter yesterday morn-ing. The old fellow held a copy of The TIMES in his hand, and his bright little eyes snapped like an old maid's when she discovers her first man under the bed. He discovers her first man under the bed. He evidently had something on his mind, and the reporter broke the rule, "Never let a '49er stuff you," by asking the sun-tanned pioneer to wind his lungs up and tell what he knew about confidence men. "Young man, I know but little about such people, but I am firmly convinced that if all the money handled by confidence men who came to this city without a dellar in their pockets was put together, there is not a bank in the city that could hold it. We had confidence men in California in the '50s, but they were not at all like the sharpers who are now seen on the streets of Los Angeles. Confidence men in those days be-longed to the gambling fraternity, and none but the very greenest of tenderfeet could be taken in by them. The confidence man of '49 carried the stamp of gambler on his face, and a man who was fool enough to be taken in by him received but little sympathy from us, although we generally took the fly sport in hand, and either strung him up or made him leave camp. I have helped to drive a sus, although we generally took the fly sport in hand, and either strung him up or made him leave samp. I have helped to drive a number of them out of camp, and I have acted as master of ceremonies in more than one hanging bee. But those good old days are past, and we will never have them again. Civilization has accomplished wonders, but I can't say that morality has been improved to any alarming extent since the days of the vigilance committee. Young man, it makes my mouth water to think what a good time we could have if my old gang should come to life once more. We would jerk a few polished gentlemen who sport plug hats and wear diamond rings to kingdom come so quick that it would make your head swim. I know a few of these high-toned rassals in this city who came here without a cent, and now they are swelling about the city just as if they were real gentlemen. There are swindlers in this city of the high-toned type who are so smooth that they would deceive even a pickpocket, but you can just bet your life that they would not have fooled my old gang of black caps. Oh, what a time we would have been allowed to escape us? Not much! We would have treated his yellow carcast to a necktie party in a way that would have been allowed to escape us? Not much! We would have treated his yellow carcasts to a necktie party in a way that would have made his backbone snap like a negro-driver's blacksnake. But Griffin is not so bad as several confidence men who are swell residents of Los Angeles at the present time. I have one in my mind now, who is not only an educated confidence man, but he is a professional blackmailer. He is one of the most slippery of all the fakirs in this city or any other, but his time will come sooner or later. These fellows are bound to hang themselves if you only give them rope enough. Their stock in trade is smoothness, and they become so smooth that their judgment weakens, and the first thing you know Mr. Sharper throws himself into a network of crime, which, did he use the judgment of a lo-year o swindled. Is he sick? No, or course not the upper lip of the deceased was sandy in color, but I would not swear positively as to color.

"While the paid strikers are circulating stories about his dying condition, you hetween Mrs. Barbey's house and mine, and they are divided by willows. The trees form a good fence. After seeing Hattie through the would convince you that he is not helf so would convince you that he is not helf so would convince you that he is not helf so would convince you that he is not helf so did not see her again until the Wednesday when she drove into the Barbey place with the gentleman. After coming out they drove east for about 60 or 70 rods, when I saw them on a road that runs south. Later I saw them on a road that runs south. Later I saw them turn into Mr. Stephens's place. On the night of the fire I was wakened up between 12 and 10 clock, and when I went over to the barn it had fallen in. I heard that night no crying out nor any explosions. Some of the posts were standing, and a few boards, held up by some young trees. The barn was floored overhead for keeping hay, but I hadn't been in it for some time. The ador covered about 12 feet space, quite wide an enough to admit a vehicle. I did not know if there were tracks around the barn, nor so to know whether the jury made an inspection to see if any tracks could be discovied. The Wednesday I saw Hattle I do not know whether she or her companion was driving. One horse was a gray, the other a bay. Mr. Jenkins aroused me, and thoroughly, and when everything is ready the mine is sprung with a suddenness that fairly takes the breath out of the victim, and before he can recover himself his moneys is in the pocket of the confidence worker, and the poor sucker is perfectly flelpless. The confidence man works on the same plan adopted by the stage or train-robber. Hundreds of brave men will be as humble and lamb-like as infants when they are placed face to face with a stage-robber, for the simple reason that they never knew what was to come until the robber jams a pistol in front of them and orders them to deliver up their property. The gentlemanly confidence thief works on the same principle. He takes his victim by surprise, and, of course, he has the same advantage that the stage-robber enjoys. Hundreds of men have been 'stood up' by stage and train robbers wish they had never been born had the robbers given them time to collect their senses and bravery. And thousands of men have been robbed by confidence men who would not have lost a cent had the confidence men given them a chance to think. Oh! I should enjoy pulling on the slack end of a rope that had been attached to the neck of a few Los Angeles confidence men and then thrown over a lamp-post. Well, good-bye, old man. Keep up your hunt for confidences fakirs, and the people will call you biessed."

Brown is considered by the detectives Brown is considered by the detectives to be a smooth citizen and a professional in the burglar's art. The crime for which he stands convicted was committed last February. He got a job in the Angelica bakery, on First street, and the third night after he begun work, Paul Brose, the owner of the establishment, was robbed of $40, the money being taken from his pockets while he was in bed.

Brown was suspected, and the next day skipped out without asking for his pay. The steal was reported and Detective Aubel found and arrested Brown on Main street, identifying him by tatoong on his hand. Brown swore he had never worked at the bakery, but the other employés recognized him as the missing Brown and he was jailed.

After his arrest his old apartments were searched, and a fine lot of burglar tools, drills, key-nippers, sandbags, etc., were found. It was atterwards learned that he was an ex-convict, and one of a gang who had lived in the quarters.

ANSCHLAG'S MOTHER.

A Big Batch of Business Disposed of Bills Passed.

The first business taken up by the Supervisors yesterday morning was the petition of E. Germain, H. L. Flash, F. M. Keach WRITES TO HIS MOTHER.

and A. J. Haley to obtain a franchise to build and operate a rapid transit steam motor railroad from Los Angeles city to Santa Monica, to be known as the Ocean

Sunday he wrote 'long, discursive letter to his mother, which is too lengthy to reproduce in its entirety. Anschlag starts in py saying: "I have received Anna's letter, and I am exceedingly sorry that I have grieved you, and that by my act I have disgraced you gives me great pain. I do not really believe that by what I have done I have hung my shame upon the great bell of the tower. I am far too proud to do anything of this character. I would do no such thing, that it should still further brand our name in our home." This sentence is enigmatical, yet expressive, as it would seem to imply that he had fastened a stigma upon it on some former occasion. "You at least," he continued, "shall suffer no further through me. The all-powerful God preserve me from doing such a thing. But how could I," he asks, almost pitcously, "give you the information in any other way, and I sent you the dispatches as rapidly as I could in order to receive the money I needed so very badly." Then, as if heartily ashamed of this outburst, he assumes a more independent tone, and exclaims: "I ask no money from my uncle until I am 24 years of age. But you have my father's money, and of this I wish you would send me whatever I require whenever I write to you for it."

The word write is heavily underscored, to convey, no doubt, the instruction that telegrams are liable to be otherwise concected and sent.

"Send me at once $50," he goes on. "I was in the hope of having by this time the $50 I sent for some time ago. The balance of the money can be given me when I am once more restored to, and can mingle with, the living." This delusive hope seems to him a terrible reality—a certainty that is only a matter of a few days, because in his next sentence he tells his mother what he proposes doing.

"With my hands and by the sweat of my brow will learn my bread, and I will, too, if God permits it, live a most careful, thrifty life, and will save all I possibly can, so that if it is in my power, and you tan keep my misfortune as secret as you whis. I wil salary $75 per mouth, which was lost by a tie vote.

Supervisor Martin moved to make it $75.0 a month. No second, but the Superintendent of Schools said he would favor $85 a month.

Another vote on the $75 proposition, renewed by Supervisor Venable, on the understanding that it was only clerical aid wanted by the Superintendent, was adopted. Supervisor Venable, in an aside before the ballotting commenced, stated that Mr. Brierly, although undoubtedly well quantified, was objectionable to many persons, and he would not favor him for the place. Mr. Brierly is name was not pushed by the Superintendent.

Clerk Dunsmoor has received the following letter from Hiram N. Rucker, Grand Master of the F. and A. Masons of California, which was read to the board and received and placed on file:

County Clerk, Los Angeles—Dear Sir: Yours of the 15th inst has been received, and you may say to the Board of Supervisors that I accept their invitation to lay the corner-stone of the new courthouse, and expect to attend the ceremony in person. It was my purpose to attend some of the lodges in Southern California the last of this month, but I shall now defer my visit, and owing to other engagements, could not get there before about the 25th or 27th of April.

A communication was opened from D. Shakespear of Napa City, which was intended for the Supervisors of Napa county. It related to a drive from Napa to Calistoya. A petition was received from 19 residents of Anaheim against that Anaheim, Olinda and Pomona Railroad going into Anaheim on East street. The petitioners claim it is the only available avenue for entry into the city. No action was taken on the matter, as the law of incorporation governs the question.

thing more than open rear-estate offices to sell the entire country out at auction."

Regarding an important point as to how matters stand over the border, the question was recently answered by the Nogales Reserve as follows:

The first question that a prospective American investor asks is: "Is capital safe in Mexico?" Eight years ago the writer would have replied "no." Today the question is answered by an emphatic "yes." The reason for the change of opinion is based upon the multifarious changes inaugurated by a liberal administration. Up to eight years ago the country was a seething pot of revolution, general misrule and disorder. This has been succeeded by law and order, and now the watchword of the nation is Advance. The brains of the country are represented in the administration of the Federal and State Governments, and military dictatorship has succumbed to civil rule. That animosity for Americans which was so manifest in former years, has worn away through attrition of the two people. The personal feeling between the citizens of the two Republics is striking in its cordiality. Mexico, with extended hands and laws that are liberal, invites the capitalist to develop her resources. Today there are millions of dollars of American capital invested in the various States of our sister Republic, and an increase is expected. Capital is safe in Mexico, and it remains for Americans to develop the richest country on the continent.

He has been writing an article for the Nineteenth Century, an English magazine, in which he attempts to enlighten the English people respecting our system of government, State and Federal. He calls it "a concise and accurate outline," and it will probably be accepted as such by English readers. F. L. SWEANY, M.D. OF PHILADELPHIA,

Is Now Permanently Located at 31 N. Main st., Los Angeles, Cal.

A word to the wise is sufficient. Dr Sweany of Philadelphia has arranged to combine the new method (Bergeon's) by gaseous enemata, for the cure of consumption and all diseases of the lungs and respiratory tract with his own system, hypernutrition, which he has practiced so successfully in Phila-delphia, where thousands can testify to the success of his treatment; and new by combining the two systems Dr. Sweany wishes to say to all people who are suffering with consun asthma, dyspnoea, catarrh, blood poisens, etc., or any disease whatever of the respiratory organs, that "there is balm in Gilead." That with his combined treat ent he can cure any and all cases of consumption and lung

A FEW EXPLANATORY NOTES. The Burgeon treatment for consumption by gaseous enemata consists of the introduction of the parasiticide diately taken up by the veins and passes through the venous circulation to the liver, from thence to the heart passes through the venous circulation to the liver, from thence to the lungs, passing all of this distance through the venous blood, and reaches the lungs in a state of purity, where it can be detected in from one to four minutes after its administration into the rectum. If this gaseous substance should have to pass through arterial blood its powerful effects on the diseased lung tissue would be destroyed by the oxygen contained in arterial blood. There is no oxygen in venous blood until it reaches the lungs, where it receives its charge of oxygen from the air drawn into the lungs during the act of breathing, after which it passes from the lungs into the arterial circulation through the system, and finally reaches the rectum and other distal points again converted into venous blood kaying given up its oxygen to the system. The difference between arterial blood and and venous blood is oxygen, the fermer being loaded with it and the latter being devoid of it. It is upon this fact alone that Bergeon, the French physician, was able to make this method practicable; hence it is also that alt of the inhalations are of little or no value because, in order to reach the lungs inhalations must be exposed to oxygen in its passage from the mouth to the lungs through the midlum of atmospheric air, which destroy their value.

Some persons who do not understand the anatomy and physiology of the human system would be at a loss to know how medicine placed into the rectum could act beneficially on the lungs, but when they understand how the venous blood rushes from any and all parts of the body to the lungs to receive a new charge of oxygen, then they will readily understand how this paresticide gas, introduced into the peripheral venous circulation (the rectum) is carried along with this blood directly to the lungs.

This method is easy of application and acts directly on the diseased lung tissue, killing the germ of the disease, after which the tubercies heal up, expectoration ceases, the lungs assume a natural and healthy condition, and all of the distractors of the tural and healthy condition, and all of the distressing symptoms of con-sumption soon disappear. This method practically brings the lungs to the surface of the body, that they may be treated topically the same as can the skin.

Dr. Sweany's system of treatment by hypernutrition for consumption and all diseases of the lungs, blood, brain consists of a Dr. Sweany's system of treatment by hypernutrition for consumption and all diseases of the lungs, blood, brain and nervons system consists of a course of forced nutrition, by which new nerve, new muscle, new bone and new tissue of all kinds are made in the body and substituted for the diseased tissue, thus forcing the disease from the system by fortifying its enemy, nature, and supplying her with material strength, which she can most effectively use in exterminating disease, etc. Persons gain in actual weight while under this treatment from one-quarter to one pound per day, which means a great deal to a weak and debilitated person.

We could not expect of a body of carpenters to go out on a vacant let, build and construct a house without first having the material necessary to construct the house placed within their reach. Hence, how can we expect nature to reconstruct a debilitated and impoverished system without first having the necessary material to be used in the reconstruction places within her reach. Dr. Sweany's system of hypernutrition places these materials within nature's reach, and the work goes on to a speedy and happy completiou, for nature is a skilled mechanic, a true and energetic workman, a preserver and friend to health.

Dr. Sweany has arrang-d to combine the two new and wonderfully successful methods, and appeals to all who may be suffering to seek relief where it may be had. The one method kills the germ of the disease, while the other goes to assist nature. What can be the result? Health, happiness and long life.

Is there no balm in Gilead?

most valuable belongings of the large city. It is the heritage of the people, the property of rich and poor alike.

The Old World has been wiser that the New in the matter of park appropriations and improvements. There is no feature of foreign cities more attractive to the American traveler than their garden-like parks. Horticultural science and the landscape gardener have exhausted their skill in perfecting their beauty. And it is money well spent. It affords more enjoyment to the masses than could be given them in any other way. It is to be doubted if any one improvement that Los Angeles has made affords as much genuine satisfaction to all classes of her people as that exended upon her Sixth-street Park That is exceedingly attractive now, as far as it goes, and one of the greates ornaments that the city possesses, but what a park should be. We want a park with splendid driveways; with varied landscape; with every variety of shade; with tropical plants and flowers; with arbors and fountains, and lakes even if they be artificial ones-one

As soon as practicable, it is desirable that our Elysian Park be improved will require time and liberal expenditure, but it will be a great advantage to Los Angeles when the work is accomplished. The public park is favor with every lover the beautiful. We cannot congratulate urselves too heartily that the grounds of the Soldiers' Home are so near us. The skill of the landscape gardener will doubtless be expended freely upon them. Tropical trees and flowers wil adorn them, and they will be made famous for their beauty. And we should vie with them to make our mu-nicipal parks no less beautiful. In this climate our parks may be made to outrank anything in the country in the variety of their attractions, for we may have the plants and flowers of all blended. We cannot begin the work of this improvement too soon nor push it too vigorously.

By the forging the tally sheet of a Columbu precinct, the jury, after a deliberation of 90 hours, failed to agree, two of the jurors standing out for acquittal. The result of the case caused widespread regret among the citizens of Ohio, regardless of party, as it was known that the two jurors stood out, not on the evidence, but on their political proclivities. Now comes the news by wire that in the Cincinnati municipal elections the Reublican candidates were elected by an average majority of 5000. The entire board of 30 Aldermen, for the first time in its history, is Republican. It will thus be seen that the respectable Democrats of Cincinnati have administered a severe rebuke to the lawless element. gash was made by the knife, but it is thought he will recover. The circumstances are these:

Thompson is a lather by trade, and until lately has been in the employ of Mr. Nelson Epperson. Last night he came to Epperson's room in the lodging-house and said he wanted to write a letter. Epperson invited him in and furnished him with pen and paper. When Thompson entered the room he drew a pistol from his pocket and tossed it over on the bed.

Mr. Epperson left the room to go down town, and told Thompson where he could be found when the lefter was finished Leaving him there, Epperson went out, and did not return until 11 o'clock. When he did return, the door of his room was locked. He went around to a side window and looked in, and saw Thompson lying on the floor, covered with blood. He gave the alarm, and the door was broken in.

Thompson was lying on the floor with his coat and vest off, and the room was greatly in disorder. Blood was flowing from a gash in his throat, and had colored his shirt and the carpet a horrible red. A bloody wash-bowl, broken into several pieces, lay at his head. On the floor near him lay a common pocket-knife, covered with blood, and close to the knife was the pistol, loaded all around.

Word was sent to the police and Dr. Wright was called. An examination of the wound showed that several blood vessels had been severed but that it was not necessarily fatal. The ambulance was summoned, and the wounded man was taken to the County Hospital.

It is thought that Thompson was under the influence of opium yesterday, and committed the deed last night during a moment of depression. That is the only cause ascribed. If he wrote the letter mentioned it could not be found last night.

Thompson was pretty well known in the eity, having run a race with Bethune some time since. He came here from Kansas.

While crossing the Macy-street bridge, on the way to the bospital, Thompson breathed his last. The only expression he made on his act was. "I wish I hadn't done it," which he said as he was being put in

WANTED TO DIE.

A Prominent Young Man Takes Morphine.

Within the last few weeks the city has maintained its reputation in a certain direc-tion by having quite a number of semi-sensational episodes occur, which doubties have afforded enjoyment to that portion of the community that takes delight in any thing and everything that is outside the boundary of every-day life.

A little incident occurred on Monday, which has been kept remarkably quiet, but which at one time threatened to leak out in consequence of the death of the principal party concerned. Party concerned.

A gentleman well known in the city, and until recently closely identified in his business.

consequence of the teach of the patterns, and the patterns and the teach of the most promisent and popular real-estate men, on Monday afternoon, at his office, took an overdose of morphise—or at least he says it was an overdose, and that he did not take it intentionally. When he discovered what he haddone, the full nature of the deed burst upon his mind, and he became terribly alarmed. For some time he kept his own counsel, but he knew the drug was working insidiously in his system, and quite possibly, if relief was not obtained, in a few short hours he would cross the dark river over which there is no return. Overcoming his disincilination to reveal his dangerous condition to any one, he caused a medical man to be summoned. By the time the doctor arrived the patient was in a dangerous condition and no time was to be lost. Calling a hack, the gentleman was removed to a quiet todging-house. An eiderly lady was persuaded—too a consideration—to surrender her suite of rooms for the benefit of the sufferer, who was brought in and laid down.

Refusing to accept the responsability of treating a patient who was in such a dangerous condition by himself, the medical man who had been first called, summoned a brother practitioner to his assistance and a little later two more joined their brethren in consultation. From about 5 o'clock on Monday afternoon until late at night the quartette of doctors labored to save the life, of the man, who to all appearance had entered the "shadowy land."

For hours he hovered between life and death, but with persistent energy his attendants labored to counteract the effects of the poison. Eventually their efforts were crowned with success, and they were able to pronounce their patient out of danger crowned with success, and they were able to pronounce their patient out of danger and on a fair road to recovery.

Beling allowed to sleep, he wakened up gesterday morning very weak and exusted, but no longer in peril, and there is every reason to suppose that in a day or two he will be as well as ever.

The whole affair has been kept strictly 'under the rose,' but no reason is assigned for keeping the matter so quiet, if it was simply an accidental taking of an overdose. On the other hand, certain of the gentleman's friends are somewhat puzzled to know what he was "monkeying" with morphine at all for. As far as they knew, he did not suffer from any affection for which morphine is a cure or a palliative, and he never bore the reputation of being a fiend. The incident, like many others that are brought to light, only goes to show that right in the heart of the city, day by day, strange occurrences are taking place, of which the public learn only sufficient to enable them to realize the fact and appreciate their own ignorance on the subject.

the announcement that there was an article he had tound in his house, and as it looked suspiciously like a dynamite bomb or an infernal machine, he would like to have it examined. The Chief, brave enough at the muzzle of a revolver, gave an involuntary, shudder and shoved back his chair. Visions of Haymarket square, and of bleeding forms clad in blue, passed before his eyes, and thoughts of Auarchaists. Communists, Minilists and other "ista" of the red-flag order passed through his brain.

Plainly, he didn't caré to look on the finside of the mysterious box, but he was Chief of Police, and couldn't refuse an investigation, whether ordered by the Commissioners or an humble citizen, so he got out his knife and began to make an incision in the end of the concern. Four reporters, who had been interested spectators, ited. A couple of officers who had been hoking on took their leave more hastily than was in k-eeping with the dignity of their new helmets. The Chief was alone with the thing. It required but a moment to cut a hole in the box, and then there poured out through the aperture about four ounces of coarse grained powder.

It was really and truly a bomb, though of the milder sort, and had been manufactured with some care. It consisted of a wood cylinder four inches long and two inches in diameter, filled with powder. In one end was a small hole, evidently intended for a

DASHED TO DEATH.

A Wreck at San Fernando-Two Men Killed and Six Wounded About 10 o'clock last night a rumor was circulated in this city that a collision had occurred near San Fernando, and that 12 persons had been killed and many wounded occurred near San Fernando, and that 12 persons had been killed and many wounded Upon investigation, this first report was found to be grossly exaggerated, and it was learned that freight train No. 24 and a construction train had collided one mile south of the San Fernando tunnel on the Southern Pacific road, and six miles from the railroad station of San Fernando. The wreck is believed to have occurred on the mountain-side, where the grade is 116 feet to the mile.

It appears from the meager reports that could be gleaned of the accident last night that the freight and construction trains came together 'head on' and on a single track, and that the head englue of the two engiaes on the freigt train and the construction train engine and six empty cars were smashed, and Engineer Westerfield and Fireman Brooks killed, and five or six laborers injured. How severely these latter were hurt, or whether they were white or Chinese, was not known here. Westerfield was a married man and resided in this city, but Brooks' residence is not known.

The wreck occurred about 6:45 p.m., and the cause is not known, nor who is to blame for the accident. A wrecking train was dispatched from this city by the officers and the company's doctors sent forward to attend to the wounded, and the Coroner notified.

The accident occurred in a lonely locality about 24 miles from this city, and no answer could be obtained to a dispatch sent to San Fernando last night. It was expected in this city that the wrecking train sent to the scene would return to this city during the night, bringing the dead and wounded, or such as could be brought. The accident delayed all the trains both ways during the night, bringing the dead and wounded, or such as could be brought. The accident delayed all the trains both ways during the night, bringing the Assistant District At

Officials of the St. Paul road today discovered that the switches connecting the Northwestern tracks at Western avenue, were spiked. The St. Paul people say that the Northwestern folks probably think this the safest way to avoid trouble, as the spiking of the switches precludes the possibility of any freight being tendered the Northwestern and St. Paul. They hold that the spiking was done at the Listigation of the Northwestern officials.

The unconditional surrender of the Michigan Central strikers today was due to the influence exerted by the delegation of Brotherhood men from Jackson, who arrived this morning. The Brotherhood engineers were greatly adverse to the strike and positively refused to back it up. Bushess in the Michigan Central yards is proceeding now as usual.

The Burlington road this afternoon applied to Judge Gresham for an injunction against the Belt line to restrain the latter from refusing to handle "Q" freight. This is the original suit reinstated, and seems to indicate that the Belt line is being badily ushed by its employés, and has agreed to the reviving of the original bill. Judge Gresham granted a temporary writ.

CLEVELAND (O.), April 3.—Chief Engineer Arthur said to a reporter this evening, that the Brotherhood would be very glad to see a Congressional investigation into the Burlington strike, as they thought it would bring the policy of that company before the public scrutiny, and be productive of much good. Referring to the strictures upon the engineers in the report of the grand secretary of the Conductors' Brotherhood, Arthur expressed a contemptuous disregard for anything they might say. He was not surprised at the document, as the conductors had been violently opposed to the Brotherhood for some time; first, because the latter would not affiliate in any manner with them, and second, because the bill the conductors were working for in Congress, to compet the licensing of conductors and engineers. Arthur denied positively that there was any danger of a split in the Brotherhood, because some of the radicals were dissatisfied with the convervative policy of himself and lieutenants. STRIKERS APPARENTLY WEAKENING. CHICAGO, April 3.—Two thousand delegates, representing the engineers, firemental and switchmen of all the roads leading to and switchmen of all the roads leading to Chicago, held a meeting this afternoon General Manager Jeffreys of the Illinois Central made a speech. At the conclusion it was resolved that the men on each road be allowed to use their own judgment in all questions growing out of the strike. This is considered to be a virtual indorsement of the Michigan Central men's action today. The Fort Wayne strikers today asked the General Superintendent whether if they returned to work in the morning, they would General Superintendent whether if they re-turned to work in the morning they would be taken back. He replied in the affirma-tive, provided they would handle all busi-ness without discrimination. This is thought to indicate that the Ft. Wayne strike will soon be over. The Belt line employes decided tonight to stand by the company and handle all freight as directed. This ends the trouble on that line.

THE ST. PAUL MEN FLOP.

CHICAGO, April 3.—The striking St. Paul yardmen held a meeting tonight and appointed a committee to wait upon General Superintendent Clark with the proposition that they would go back to work if the new men were directed to clear the yards of Burlington freight. This Clark rejected, and the committee returned to the meeting place, where it was instructed by the meeting to again see Clark and offer an unconditional surrender. He received this proposition, and the men will go to work in the morning.

CHICAGO, April 3.—[By the Associated Press j The Burlington officials announced this afternoon that the delivery of cars to a large number of roads would be attempted tomorrow, and the final struggle in the great strike will probably them take place. No attempt was unade by the company to business to-day, the plea being that the police were needed at the polis throughout the city where the municipal election was in progress. An inkling of how the Burlington's "general advance" may be met tomorrow in some quarters lies in the fact that in order to reach the Grove-street yards connections are made with at least six other roads. The "Q" has to pass over this section of the Alton tracks where they were so vigorously obstructed yesterday. The switches of the Rock Island yards are locked so that no Burlington cars can be run in.

A building about 10 feet high was erected and coated inside with tar. Kerosene oil was thrown on liberally, soaking the wood and fine stuff in the building. This was set on fire, and after burning flereely the extinguisher was used, quenching the flames in less time than it takes to tell it. This operation was repeated with the same result, the wood being charred in to the depth of nearly half an inch. The test was a complete success. Severs parties left their names with Mr. F. W. (Chicago Letter to New York Times.)
The tales from the blizzard belt are no means all told yet. That charmsection of the Northwest may be ing out by degrees, but every inche that disappears sets loose an-narrative descriptive of the man-of cold weather which obtains. There are a good many visitors chicago now who claim a personal quaintance with the blizzard, and then two or three of them get together round a hotel stove they go very deep to the history and snowbanks of a nonth or so ago.

Such a little party was grouped in so office of one of the $2-a-day hostel-es of this town a day or two ago.

Such a little party was grouped in the office of one of the $2-aday hostelries of this town a day or two ago, while a keen north wind was rattling the windows and offering scores of texts for discourses on minus tempera tures. An Eastern man merely ventured the suggestion that it was rather chilly out of doors. It was a perfectly innocent remark in itself, but it aeted upon his hearers as a suggestion that English workmen are overpaid sets upon a high-tariff orator. Each Westerner stiffened himself in his chair, cleared his throat and drew in the long breath that precedes cloquence. But a representative of Dakota got the start. "Chilly," quoth he, "why, out in my country we'd call this balmy."

Nobody denied the statement, and the first speaker seized the opportunity to suggest that it must be very cold indeed in Dakota. This was a success, as both timely and conciliatory. The champion of the garden of the earth meet of a bit and looked at the other almost pityingly.

"the vourse from the East." he said.

Something like that, any way. Was like this. You see, before the greeze came we had a dreadful any fall of snow, and it seemed to nk up, particularly about our town. It got so cold that the snow froze sid, like ice. Well, it so happened at all the wells were covered particularly sop, and for a week all the water guit was by melting snow. Then guiters set in, and pretty soon half a tolks were ripping open their shirt siars to get more room. Something in the sum of the set of t if they hand't had some dynamite cartridges handy. Of course, after we got to the water we were all right. But till we did it looked mighty queer to see every man in town going round with the gaiters on. It was a touching sight, I tell you."

"Yes, it must have been," admitted the learner.

"Well, you folks must have changed since I was in your town," said a second member of the party, "if you'd lets little lack of water bother you. What's the matter up there? Have you gone 'dry,' too? What was the matter with corn juice?"

"Whisky all froze up," was the laconic response.

"Whisky all froze up," was the labout response.

And then conversation lagged for a moment until the man who had put a memor on the flow of soul made amends by vouching for the solidification of alcohol in the Northwest.

"Quite a common thing," he said. "I've seen it happen myself. Caused great suffering, too, while it lasted. "It must have been pretty weak! whisky," submitted the Easterner.

"Weak! Weak! Young man, you don't know the Northwest. We don't have no infant foot there, I want you to understand."

And three heads nodded solemn assent to the assertion.

"Speaking of whisky"—and the member of the party who had hitherto been silent picked up the thread of the discourse—'reminds me that there was a queer thing happened a year ago up near my place. There was an old fellow who owned as pretty a farm as you could find in the county. Besides, he had two or three more in Kansas, and his son had been urying him for a long time to go down there, and et the younger generation try its hand on the farm up our way. But the old man was determined to stick, and all the son's arguments were just wasted upon him. I guess he would have been there yet if it hadn't been for his faith in science. You see, the old gentleman had done a lot of reading late in life. He set great store by his science, too, and if there was one thing he was aspecially proud of it wis a big thermometer that he'd got in Chicago and that was warranted to have the temperature down to a fine point every time. Now, it happened that at the time I'm speaking of he had been reading a book about Greenland or Alaska or somewhere up north, and had come across a statement that the natives got so accustomed to extreme cold that they didn't mind it, and got along just as comfortably as we do in spring. He told about this at supper one night.

"You don't believe that, do you, father?" asked the son.

"Of course I do,' said the old man; 'ain't it science that says so?'

"Then he got up, hobbled over to the door, picked up his launtern, and went out to look at his thermometer on the porch.

"She's going down,' he said when he came back. "Twas even zero at 4 says son." The same back. "Twas even zero at 4 says son." The same back. "Twas even zero at 4 says son." The same back. "Twas even zero at 4 says son." The same back. "Twas even zero at 4 says son." The same back. "T time and it ran out easily. The young man stuck the tinfoll in its place, heated the glass, and bent it round the ball, so that the break wouldn't be easily noticed, and then hung the thermometer up outside in its usual place. When' his father looked at it in the morning, of course, it looked as if the mercury was still frozen solid. The old man always kept close to the fire in such weather, and he didn't stir out that day. Neither did he the next or the next, but he got his books on the arctic regions and did a lot of reading in his corner. Well, this state of things kept up for a week, till one day the old man got a paper in which some reliow tried to prove that the pole of greatest cold was moving southward. He shook his head a good many times as he read it, and evidently was getting worried. Now, it happened that after the cold snap came a warth spell, and, looking out of the windows of the house, the old man saw that people were going with faw wraps on. Then he took a good many looks at his trusted thermometer, shook it, and seemed more anxious than ever.

There will be no auction sale and no one will be asked to purchase property. Our only object is to afford an opportunity to all their ewn opinion from a personal examination of its merits. In this lively competition for public favor among the growing a nia, the zealons (and sometimes jealons) advocate of his own town will detract from the merits of some rival locality that is front. In this way some unfair statements have been put forth as to the merits of Burbank. So confident are we that a personal statement of the statement of th refute and silence all such statements, we have decided to run this pleasure excursion and invite every one to join us, spend a n decidefor themselves. We have never had but one excursion, never employed a brass band nor had street parades; have offered no purchasers to invest. But, without any show or parade, we have in a few months sold over 900 town lots and 2000 acres of land mearly $600,000. In less than ten months a grain field has been converted into a growing, prosperous town of over 250 hours than pure, clear and abundant, has been piped to every lot in the town. A 60-room hotel, a street car line one and a half miles to operation, brick block erected, stores and bank building completed, a $7000 schoolhouse under contract, two church ture manufactory to employ from 100 to 200 workmen and to be in operation by June 1st, and new dwellings being co Burbank a push and prosperity not surpassed by any town of its age in the State of California.

NOTE THE FACT: That Burbank is today the most prosperous suburb of Los Angeles; that Burbank will within 90 days railroad communication with Los Angeles than any other suburban town: that Burbank will have the largest furniture factory on the Burbank has the most perfect water system, the purest and a superabundance of water; that Burbank possesses a most equality and warm in winter; that Burbank is the commercial center of one of the most fertile and fruitful valleys in Southern California. rounded by a country that will grow all kinds of cereals and fruits, including oranges and lemons, olives and English walnuts; Motor Road will be completed to Burbank within 60 days.

house Jewelry Store Robd in Broad Daylight-A Thief Disguised as a Chinaman Gives His

Last Saturday at high noon, with the treets crowded with people, and business using on with a rush, one of the most daring eries ever known in the city was com-ed on Main street, and the fact of the t was not known until 5 o'clock in the on. A tray of diamond rings, valu 00, was taken from a show case in the house jewelry store, and the thief es-sect free with the sparklers, and up has not been heard from. The steal

F. H. Klages, and is located next door the Grand Opera-house. During business urs there are usually four men in the ore, but Saturday at noon three of them, sluding Mr. Klages, went out to lunch, wing a young son of the proprietor in side the case which were not molested. A thief's luck was with him, however, as he got the finest jewelry in the house, the stones being pure white diamonds and richly mounted. If he had taken time, there were $5000 worth of jewels lying around the case which be could have taken. One of the workmen noticed the absence of the tray about 2 o'clock but thought it had been taken out to clean the rings. Another saw it was missing at 4 o'clock but thought it had been taken out to clean the rings. Another saw it was missing at 4 o'clock but thought in thought nothing strange, and it was 5 o'clock before any inquiry was made and the robbery became known. Then the young man told his story of the Chinaman and it was at once surmised that the pigtall was an accomplice and decoyed the boy away, and, according to the boy's statement, stood between him and the door, thus shutting off his view of the front, while his pal sneaked in and made the raid. Ohlef Cuddy was summoned and made an examination of the store, but found nothing which gave the slightest clue to the thief. The Chinaman had disappeared and the boy could not remember his name or his face. The police detectives took the case in hand, but thus far have made no arrests. The matter has been kept a profound secret from the public and the newspapers, and it was not until yesterday by a Times accorder and somewhat rejuctantly related

BAILBOAD MATTERS.

What the Various Railroads Are Do-ing All Over the Country. The San Bernardino Courier says in rela-lation to the San Bernardino Central Railroad: It is projected to run from San Bernardino to San Diego via Riverside and South Riverside, and connecting at Colton with the Central Pacific. It is said to be entirely an independent road, and not being built under cover for that corporation; but grows out of a refusal on the part of Mr. Huntington to build the line originally pro jected by the Southern Pacific fro 1 Los Angeles to San Diego. It is said the road may e extended to Los Angeles and Pasadens "The real reason why the Southern Pa-cific magnates did not go farther than San Bernardino and Colton during their recent visit to Southern California was a secret until yesterday. The gentlemen in charge and delegated by Mr. Charles Crocker for the purpose of securing the rights of way to San Diego, and to arrange the preliminary points with the different owners of pary points with the unicieus projected ine of the Southern Pacific has to pass, and his cipher dispatches and letters to Mr. Crocker led the latter to believe that every crocker led to be latter to believe that every crocker led to be latter to be lived that the latter that th Crocker led the latter to believe that everything was in such shape as to necessitate the personal approval of C. P. Huntington. He wired to this gentleman to leave New York and come West at once. Mr. Huntington came, and the first persons he met in Los Angeles were owners of lands in Pasadena and San Diego. When the sublicit was procedule that When the subject was broached, those gen-tlemen, instead of offering their lands free twen the subject was broached, those gentlemen, instead of offering their lands tree or at a very moderate price, demanded amounts which, to use Mr. Huntington's expression, are exorbitant and fabulous. This disgussed the great railroad unguate, and with a queer look to Mr. Crocker, he said: "Tell Towne to head the engine toward San Francisco." Nose of the gentlemen who accompanied him could influence his already-made-up mind, but Mr. Richardson, one of the Southern Pacific officials, who induced him to take the California Central for San Bernardino, in order to convince himself of the wonderful developments of this section of country and return by his own read via Colton. When they reached this city Mr. Huntington himself, after having been introduced to one of our real-estate agents, who had in his hands a piece of property through which the surveying party left their flags and which was also in the neighborhood of the projected depot, asked him under what conditions be would renounce the said property in favor of the Southern Pacific. The agent's reply caused Mr. Huntington to ejaculate: "This is the way-you want to show your friendship to the Southern Pacific Keep it, please, for the Santa Fé, who may build another road to San Bernardino in the future."

"When the party returned to Los An"

another road to San Bernardino in the future."

"When the party returned to Los Angeles, the railread king said: 'Not a rail will our system lay until the intérested people of the towns through which our lines our projected, will offer us the same inducements and benefits that were offered to the Santa Fé Company. The right of way from Albambra to San Bernardino, from the figures I have before me, pass the immaterial figure of $2,000,000,' and, turning toward Mr. Crocker, 'Charile,' he said, 'you may build it, creating a new system, but this road, under such conditions, will not be built by the Southern Pacific Company, so long as I am at the head of it."

A delegation has gone to San Francisco from Los Angeles and San Diego counties to induce Mr. Huntington to change his mind. It is said Gov. Waterman will be requested to use his influence.

Trom Los Angeles and San Diego counties to induce Mr. Huntington to change his mind. It is said Gov. Waterman will be requested to use his influence.

General Agent Dunn was yesterday shown a telegram from Kansas City, which stated that the switchmen and firemen in the Santa Fé yards there had quit work because they were required to handle "Q" freight. He stated that he knew nothing about the trouble there, but that the officials in California, so far as he was aware, did not apprehend any further trouble from their employes on this coast. He believed that the road today was in a better condition than any line in the country to avoid trouble, because it had already had its experience. He sidded that switchmen and brakemen were not skilled hands, and their places could easily be filled. He gave it as his opinion, on the question being asked when the Los Angeles and San Diego Railroad would be in operation, that he thought it would not becompleted before June 1st. There is a large amount of bridge building to be done near Santa Ans, and some heavy cuts to make on the road.

The Calfornia Central Railroad has arranged with the Redondo Beach Company to run special trains between this city and Redondo Beach for one week, exclusive of Sunday. The trains between this city and Redondo Beach for one week, exclusive of Sunday. The trains between this city and Redondo at 3 p.m., arriving at 15:50 p.m.

During this time all trains for Port Bailtona will be discontinued, the train arriving at Los Angeles at 8 a.m. and the train departing at 5:16 p.m.

The San Francisco Chronicle says: "C. P. Huntington has settled himself down to work in earnest in the private office of President Stanford of the Southern Pacific Company at Fourth and Townsend streets. He is in daily conference with Charles Crecker, Col. C. F. Crocker, A. N. Towne, Chief Engineer Hood and other officials of the company in regard to the company as the construction of proposed improvement in the service of the company as well as the construction of proposed im improvement in the service of the company, as well as the construction of proposed branch lines. He will begin a tour of the coast in a special car, with a party of officials, in the course of the next fortnight. Before leaving for the East, which will probably not be before June 1st, he will have traveled over nearly the whole of the mileage of the Southern Pacific Company, including the California and Oregon."

TEN YEARS.

The Would-be Murderer of His Child Gets Ten Years. In Department No. 1 of the Superior Court vesterday morning, George Westfall, who was convicted of having attempted to kill his infant child near the Southern Pacific depot last fall, was called for sentence. When the case came up, the old man stepped outside the dock to the side of O. E. Mason, who has acted as his attorney, and with bowed head listened while counsel made an

who has acted as his attorney, and with bowed head listened while counsel made an urrent appeal to the Court for mercy to his unhappy client. As the old man stood listening, his attitude and manner was less idlotte in appearance than when before the Court better than a week ago. With his own hand he had written an appeal, which, having handed to his counsel, was read in open court, but which the Court refused to receive. It ran as follows:

"I'm an old man, and feel that I have but a few more days to stay on this earth, and as my Father in heaven has forgiven me, I pray that you will have mercy on me.

"Gronge Westpall."

In commenting upon the case, the Court stated that had the defendant been a young man be would have been more inclined to axtend mercy, more particularly as sending a young man to the State's Prison was simply affording him an opportunity to become more proficient in crime, and on his release become an Ishmaelite, whose hand is uplited against everyone, and everybody's hand is against him. The defendant had shown little mercy, when he attempted the life of his own offspring, therefore he could not expect mercy from the Court. The Court had had a wide experience in cases of insanity, and had some time ago come to the crimination that the defendant was affected in that way, but a jury—in fact, two juries—had decided otherwise, and the Court must be guided by their decision. At the same time, if defendant is really insane it will be quickly discovered, when the Court is that you, George Westfall, be sent to San Quentin for a term of 10 years, and you are now remanded to the custody of the Sheriff of this county, to be by him handed over to the proper officers."

The Court then paid Mr. Mason the compliment of saying "that if it had been possible to save defendant, he certainly would have been saved by counsel's efforts on his behalf."
